DETECTIVE LOOKS FOR NED CROSBY

Representative of Rock Island Railway Company Says Milroy Man Robbed Station.

CASH AND OPERATOR MISSING

Sleuth Tells of Letter to Miss June Hudgins Which Was Mailed at Rushville.

From Monday's Daily.

According to Detective Reynolds, who has been here and at Milroy Saturday, Ned Crosby, whose home is at Milroy, is in bad with the police and, especially with the Rock Island Railway company. The detective came here and also went to Milroy believing that young Crosby was in this county.

The detective said that Crosby skipped out from the office of the Rock Island railway at Conrad, Iowa, with almost everything he could get his hands on. The loss to the company he says will amount to about $400. Young Crosby finished a course in telegraphy at the Dodge school for telegraphers at Valparaiso, Ind., a short time ago, and the school got him a position with the Rock Island company at Conrad. He had been working with the company just ten days when he was missing. Missing at the same time were money orders, drafts, some cash and other things which amount to $400 according to the detective. Now they are looking for Crosby, and the $400 although they have more hopes of finding Crosby than the other things which are missing.

A peculiar circumstance led the detective who has been working on the case to come to Rushville. He traced Crosby as far as Trenton, Mo., and then got a clew which looked good. He saw Miss June Hudgins, formerly of this city, and she told him that she had a letter from Crosby, dated October 20 and post-marked Rushville. She knew nothing of the charge which was against him until told by the detective and was much surprised at the story told her.

She allowed the detective to read a part of the letter and then he decided that the young man was back in his home county. Miss Hudgins and young Crosby were good friends while they were in Rush county.

The detective visited the home of Crosby's parents, but they told him that their son had not been back in this county. As far as is known Crosby has not been seen here.

It is said that Crosby wrote his parents that the office where he worked had been robbed and that circumstances were such that he feared suspicion would rest on him. For this reason he said he was looking for another place.

The detective left here Saturday night for Chicago and said he intended to put the case in the hands of a large detective agency.

"Then," said Reynolds, "if Crosby is on top of the ground we will get him."

Reynolds says he is employed by the Rock Island company.

FOOTBALL TEAM RAN OVER BUGGY

A Party of Local Youths in Wagon Smashed up Buggy For Lem Ward Yesterday.

ON THE WAY TO KNIGHTSTOWN

Where They Met Defeat at Hands of Eleven There to Tune of 59 to 0.

From Monday's Daily.

Defeated fifty-nine to nothing and fourteen dollars in the hole is the result of a local football team's escapade to Knightstown yesterday. They were figuring all morning how they were going to get out of a law suit as the result of running over Lem Ward while on their way to Knightstown.

They went up in a drummer wagon belonging to Davis Bros.' livery barn. They hung a storm curtain in front to keep the wind out of their faces and their view of the road was obstructed. They were going along at a rapid rate when they saw a rig in front and swung the horses out to pass it. In the meantime the driver of the other horse had driven down into the ditch to avoid being run over. The boys say that they thought they had passed him when they pulled back into the road and into the other buggy.

They practically ran over the buggy in which Lem Ward and his wife were riding. The wheels on one side were mashed to the ground and the shafts broken. Mrs. Ward was considerably shaken up, but Mr. Ward escaped uninjured. The boys did not stop to find the extent of the injury to the other vehicle, but left the place about as fast as their horses could take them.

Ward thought it was a party of gas well diggers and went to the place where he knew the men were working, but still he did not find the offenders. He then came to this city and learned who the boys were. He was back this morning, threatening to prosecute all of them. He was soon shown the folly of doing this after the boys agreed to pay for the repair of the buggy. After all of this bad luck the local youths were defeated by the Knightstown team to the tune of 59 to 0.

The boys in the party were Ownie McKee, George Geraghty, Scott Conde, Charles Schrichte, Henry A'Neil, Jesse Smith, Ed O'Neil, John Moffett, and Francis Joyce.

RICHARD DEAN IN SOUTH AMERICA

Missing Man, Murdered, Lost, Buried and Other Things is Located at Last.

HE WRITES TO A FRIEND HERE

Was in Rio de Janeiro, But His Next Address Will be Old Rotterdam.

While his friends were badly worried about him, while Policeman Bill Pea was digging up graves which were not graves, and while others were busily engaged finding a theory for his murder, Richard Dean, the long lost Englishman was happily speeding toward the sunny south land. And it was to the sunny south land far, far away.

A friend in this city has just received a letter from Dean in which he tells of his travels. The letter was written from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, and before he writes again he will probably have covered some more ground, or rather more water. He says that his next address will be Rotterdam.

Dean drifted in here some time ago and made several friends to whom he told his life's history. His home is in Liverpool and he had just been drifting around over the world. He worked here for some time and then he suddenly disappeared. He didn't tell anybody he was going. Immediately his friends got worried. They thought it strange that he should leave so suddenly without even telling them. Bill Pea got busy on the case and found a fresh "grave" in the Concord cemetery. Nobody seemed to know who was buried there.

Dr. Frank H. Green, county health officer, and Coroner Coleman accompanied Pea to the grave to settle the matter. Pea was satisfied after the investigation. And there was nothing strange about the fact that nobody knew who was buried there. The fact of the matter was that nobody was buried there. It was simply a pile of dirt.

And now the friends of Dean may rest easy while he is on his way to Rotterdam.

BARELY ESCAPED HORRIBLE DEATH

Mrs. Royal Lee Missed Being Run Down by Traction Car When Buggy Turned Over.

UNINJURED IN THE ACCIDENT

Mrs. Royal Lee barely escaped a horrible death Friday while driving a short distance east of Arlington. She was returning from taking her children to school and was just in the act of crossing the I. & C. traction line when she saw a car approaching. The horse was up on the track and she did not have time to get across. Acting on the impulse of a moment she tried to back her horse. The horse would not back off the track and she expected at any minute to be hurled into eternity. The horse in order to get out of the path of the car turned suddenly to one side. The buggy and horse went down into the fence corner into a wire fence. Mrs. Lee was thrown out of the buggy but was uninjured. Nothing was broken.

GETS DRUNK-- THEN GRABBY

Clyde Davis Fined $5 and Costs For Intoxication--Charged With Assault and Battery.

TRIAL WILL COME UP LATER

Colored Woman Says Davis Handled Her Roughly Saturday Night-- Patrol Wagon Pressed In.

All because Clyde Davis got intoxicated and then the least bit "grabby" Saturday night he is now laying out a fifteen dollar fine in jail and also has a charge of assault and battery against him. He was fined five dollars and costs in Mayor Cowling's court this morning on a charge of intoxication and went to jail when he failed to pay or stay it. He was also asked to answer a charge of assault and battery. The trial will be heard later.

According to Davis' own testimony he got drunk Saturday evening on a half pint of whiskey and three bottles of dry beer. After that he says that his memory left him and he does not know where he went. But there is one who knows where he went and she knows it so well that she signed an affidavit for his arrest.

Saturday night City Marshal Price was called down to the jail to arrest a man. He found Davis in an improvised patrol wagon which was an old wagon pressed into service, surrounded by several young colored men who had conducted him to jail. He was arrested by the marshal.

Mrs. West Hughes who signed the affidavit charging Davis with assault and battery says that she was walking along East Eighth street about nine o'clock Saturday night when a drunken man seized her by the arm and said, in a stern voice, "Madam, consider yourself under arrest." Mrs. Hughes said that she immediately struggled and tried to get loose. A young colored woman was with Mrs. Hughes and she says that Davis also grabbed her.

The two women raised a hue and cry and the greater part of the residents of that portion of the city were soon gathered in a large crowd. The young colored men carried Davis, who was recognized by Mrs. Hughes this morning as the offender, to an old wagon. They loaded him in and hauled him down to jail where he was arrested.

In court this morning Mayor Cowling and Wallace Morgan, deputy prosecutor, attempted to learn where Davis obtained his whiskey Saturday night. Davis seemed certain that he did not know from whom he purchased the intoxicants although the officials seemed to think differently. Davis said that he drank three bottles of dry beer in the room which was formerly occupied by George Daniel's saloon about four o'clock Saturday evening. After that he said that he purchased a half pint of whiskey of a stranger back of the saloon.

Mayor Cowling asked him if it was not a fact that he knew that man, but Davis still stuck to his first story and said that he was a stranger to him. The mayor did not seem inclined to believe the story on the theory that it was improbable. He asked Davis if he did not think it was very preposterous for a stranger to go up to a man whom he never knew and ask him if he did not want to buy some whisky.

But Davis still denied that he knew the man and said that he approached him and asked him to buy. Davis said that he handed him twenty-five cents and the stranger disappeared only to return in a few minutes with the half-pint. After he drank this Davis said he don't remember anything else which happened. He says that he may have gone up there and assaulted the two colored women or he might not, he did not know. He was asked if he knew who arrested him and he replied in the negative.

But Mayor Cowling did not give up the idea of finding out where he got the intoxicants.

"If you had thirty days in jail to think it over do you think that you could remember the man's name from whom you bought the whiskey," was asked him.

"Not if I had a year I never could tell you who sold me the whisky, because he was a stranger to me," replied Davis.

Davis was taken to jail when he failed to pay the fine which was assessed against him for intoxication, and he will have to answer to the charge of assault and battery later. Davis is a young married man with four children and is employed by Case & Joyce as a timber cutter. He has been in mayor's court twice before.

The Man Believed to be John Skeins Leaves Without Paying His Board Bill.

IS WANTED AT SHELBYVILLE

Says the Climate Doesn't Agree With Him and is Looking For Another Job.

From Monday's Daily.

T. J. Holmes, who has a boarding house in North Oliver street, would like to see John Skeins or John Cleave. He says they are one and the same.

Cleave, as he was known here, came to the Holmes house last week and obtained board and lodging. He worked at Innis, Pearce & Company's factory. Then a Connersville man saw Cleave and said his name was Skeins and that he was the man who beat a board bill at Shelbyville.

Cleave left the factory Saturday morning and went to his boarding house. He said he was not feeling well and then he asked to see the paper and saw an account of two men beating a board bill at Shelbyville. People who saw him read the article say he got white in the face.

Then he went to the factory, asked for his money and went back to the boarding house. He said the work didn't agree with him and he was going to look for another job. He is probably pretty busy looking for he has not come back to settle his board bill. And now it is supposed that he is the man wanted at Shelbyville.

LAST TRIBUTE TO GRAND OLD MAN

Large Crowd Fills United Presbyterian Church For Funeral of Professor David Graham.

FRIENDS ASSIST IN SERVICES

The Rev. M. Cowan and Dr. Hutchinson Take Part--Many Beautiful Floral Offerings.

From Monday's Daily.

The large crowd at the funeral of Professor David Graham this afternoon was an evidence of the esteem in which the grand old man was held. The United Presbyterian church was packed and many stood throughout the service.

The service was very impressive and although there was naturally a sadness it was sweet sadness if there be such thing. There was regret that the friends and the community had to give him up, yet there was a confidence that it was for the best—that his had been a life well spent and that the good old man had gone to his reward. As at all funerals there was the sadness at parting, but as one of the ministers said it was not the sadness without hope.

The service was in charge of the Rev. W. H. Clark, pastor of the United Presbyterian church. He was assisted by Dr. Hutchinson of Xenia, Ohio, and the Rev. Mr. Cowan of Indianapolis, two old friends of Mr. Graham. Music was furnished by a quartet composed of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Craig, Miss Florence Frazee and Jesse Pugh. Miss Nora Sleeth was at the organ. The music consisted of old hymns which were favorites with Mr. Graham.

The funeral service was short, being opened by Dr. Hutchinson, who read the twenty-third psalm and led in prayer. The Rev. W. H. Clark preached a short funeral sermon.

There were many beautiful floral pieces from friends, societies, the schools and the factories.

PAPERS MUST BE STOPPED SATURDAY

Delinquent Subscribers Will Not Have Any Reading Next Week--Postal Rule is Binding.

HAVE YOU NOTICED THE TAG?

If you are not careful you will not be reading any newspaper next week. You know this is the last week for the publishers to keep you on their list and if your subscription is not paid up by Saturday the paper will have to be stopped. The publishers of the Republican have no control over this. The postal authorities have said that all delinquents must be cut off November 1, and that's what will have to be done. Only a few subscribers on the Republican will be affected as the list shows that nearly all of them have paid since the first order was sent out. Look at the tag on your paper and if you are more than three months behind, come in and settle it or send a check for the amount. It will save trouble and embarrassment on both sides of the fence.

DEATH CLAIMS DAVID GRAHAM RUSHVILLE'S GRAND OLD MAN

First Superintendent of Schools in
This City and Pioneer Educator Passes Away.

WAS LOVED BY YOUNG AND OLD

Survived by Three Daughters—Funeral Service Monday at United Presbyterian Church.

From Friday's Daily.

Professor David H. Graham, known as the "grand old man" of Rushville died this morning at four o'clock. The end came peacefully and he was relieved after months of suffering. His death was the result of a complication of diseases. Since last February he had been critically ill and the end had been expected almost daily since that time. However, he had been much worse since Tuesday, and the family yesterday realized that he could not live through the night.

Although his death had been expected for some time the announcement of the death of Mr. Graham is a deep shock to Rushville. He was the grand old man of the city and almost every woman and child in the city knew and loved him. For years he had been closely identified with the activities of the city and his interest was ever in the things that were helpful and beneficial to humanity. Not only did he make friends while he was engaged in active school work but after he retired from active service he was regarded as the ideal man by school children and older folks as well.

Many is the time that he brought tears to the eyes of the school children as he told them in his quavering voice of the early days in which he was connected with the school—and never did he make one of these talks without impressing on the pupils of the school how much he loved them.

Mr. Graham was born January 13, 1826, in Franklin county, Ohio, and at the time of his death was eighty-three years old. His birthplace was a log cabin on the National road, and for eighteen years he lived there and with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Graham, endured the hardships of life in the uncultivated country. He was the eldest of three children, his two brothers being Andrew and Thomas W. Both of Mr. Graham's great grandfathers served in the Revolution.

When he was eighteen years old Mr. Graham entered the academy at Reynolds, Ohio, and then one of his first ambitions was realized. Since a mere boy he had longed to go to school and never lost an opportunity to learn. In the two years he was at the academy he made the best of the limited opportunities offered and from there Mr. Graham went to teach his first school. It was in Logan county, Ohio, about seven miles north of what is now Bellfountain.

Here he taught three months in the year, and twenty-four days in each month. He received for his work fifty cents a day but saved practically every cent he made. He was working toward the one aim of his life at that time—to get a higher education. He boarded with the patrons of the school and chopped wood, took care of the children, and did chores for his board. His was the typical life of the early school teacher and until he was twenty-four years old he taught and went to school alternately.

Then as now the children were fond of jokes on the teacher and one of Mr. Graham's favorite stories was of the Christmas morning he went to the school house and found that the children had beaten him there. The door was locked and the pupils refused to let him in. Not to be downed by the youngsters, he climbed to the roof, and put a clap board over the chimney. The youngsters were more than glad to let him in, and do it real quickly. He was always fond of talking of his experiences as a school teacher and if any man ever loved children he did.

By hard work Mr. Graham managed to save $36 and with some little help which his father was able to give him he went to Hanover college. He remained there six months and showed much ability in his work. He then obtained a position teaching in the school which he had attended and for three years was an instructor in the Reynoldsburg academy.

An acquaintance with a former school mate ripened into a love affair which culminated in his marriage to Miss Caroline Adams. After his marriage he taught in the academy at New Washington in Clark county, Indiana. In 1862 he moved to Madison and became the superintendent of the Madison public schools. It was here he had some thrilling experiences during the war of the rebellion. Since Madison was on the Ohio river there was considerable fear for some time that the Confederates would try to invade the city. Volunteer companies were organized and remained on duty night and day. Mr. Graham willingly joined one of these companies and had an experience which was not only somewhat exciting, but showed some of the real characteristics in the man.

It was on a night that was dark and cloudy that he was patrolling a part of the river. He heard the swish of paddles in the water. Gradually through the darkness he made out the outlines of a boat.

"Halt and give the countersign," he commanded.

"I don't know the countersign," replied the boatman.

"Then you will have to come with me and don't try to run away for I will have to shoot you and I don't want to kill anyone," replied Mr. Graham. The young man was taken to headquarters and he proved to be a Madison youngster who had been across the river to see his sweetheart and had gone without getting the countersign.

In 1865 Mr. Graham became superintendent of the public schools in Columbus and during the four years he was there gained a warm place in the hearts of the people which never cooled. During the last years of his life Mr. Graham made frequent visits to Columbus, and was well known there.

It was 1869 that Rushville had the good fortune to obtain the services of Mr. Graham, and then began his residence in the city where he lived until his death. The schools were poorly organized but the city had grown to such an extent that a graded school had become a necessity. The authorities cast about for a suitable man to take charge and finally selected Mr. Graham. He came here and made a success of a difficult task.

It was his kind and sympathetic disposition, his tact and above all his lovable nature which accomplished in short time what would have taken many men years to accomplish. In the school at the time he came were the Misses Thomson, Fisher, Miller, Titt, and Williams who gave him valuable assistance in his work. In addition to acting as superintendent of the schools Mr. Graham was a teacher and today there are many people living in Rush county who loved Mr. Graham almost as they would a father, and their acquaintance started back in the seventies when he was their teacher. He was always known as the first superintendent of the Rushville schools and his life is closely interwoven with the history of the school.

As a monument to his noble work the new high school building is called the Graham school and long after the pupils have followed their teacher to the other world, this building will stand as a monument to the first superintendent. He retired from the public schools in 1883 and became a teacher in a private school for two years. In 1890 he accepted a position in the Rushville academy which was established by his brother Andrew Graham. Then he retired from school work and spent the remainder of his life in making other people happy.

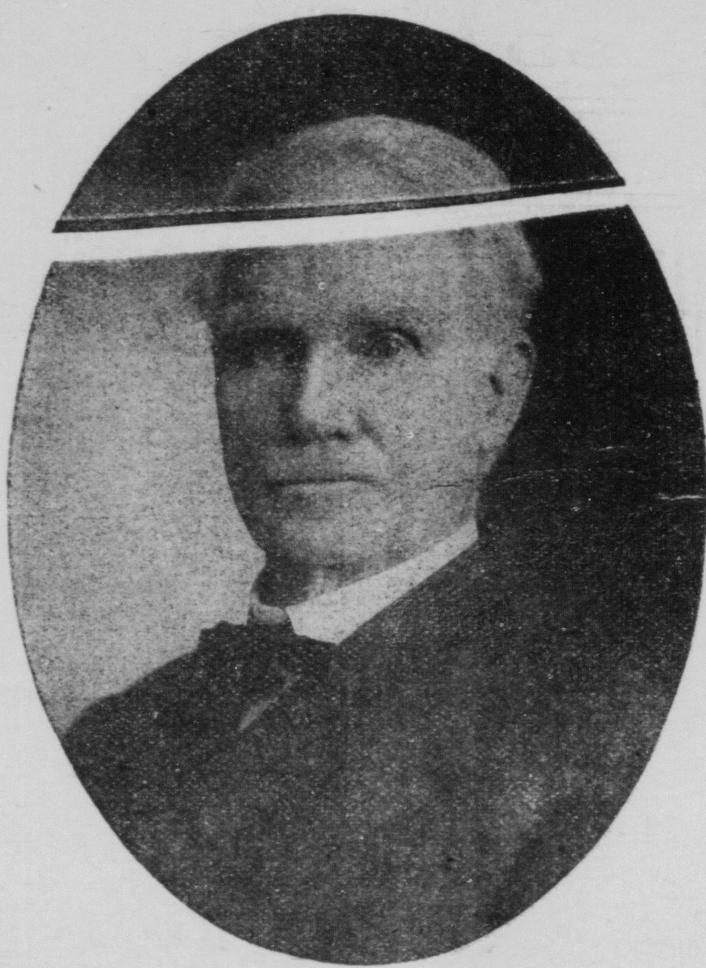

He built cottages and rented them to poor people and then helped them to buy homes at reasonable prices. He became interested in other enterprises and bought stock in the Innis, Pearce & Co. factory.

In 1886 he was elected treasurer of Rushville on the Republican ticket.

The saddest blow of his life was the death of his wife in 1900. Mrs. Graham died suddenly and the loss

WOMAN'S NERVE SCARES BURGLAR

When he Refuses to Answer Questions She Goes Down Stairs
And Opens Door.

AWAKE WITH SICK HUSBAND

Carthage Woman Hears Noise and Immediately Begins Investigation.

From Friday's Daily.

A burglar attempted to enter the home of Joseph Miller at Carthage last night. However, the fact that Mr. Miller was sick probably prevented the work of the would-be burglar.

Shortly after one o'clock this morning Mrs. Miller thought she heard someone at the front door. She waited and heard the noise again. She was then convinced that there was someone there and she asked who it was. The man made no reply and Mrs. Miller called again. Still there was no reply and she bravely went down stairs. When she opened the door no one was there, but it was evident that there had been.

It is thought that Mrs. Miller's bravery in going down stairs frightened the man away. She was awake because of her husband's illness and but for that probably would not have heard the man. This is the second robbery that has occurred in Carthage recently, a thief having entered a barbershop a short time ago and taken about fifty dollars worth of razors and cigars.

ANDERSONVILLE STIRRED UP

Because it Was the Innocent Trysting
Place of the Youthful Lovers
From Michigan.

Andersonville has been the innocent scene of a romance. It is a romance much out of the ordinary and Andersonville has its mouth wide open. And really it would make anybody or any place sit up and take notice.

Now if you were going to marry a girl and you suddenly found out that your father had stepped in and beat on your time, what would you think? There is one fellow who is thinking and thinking a lot, too, but too late, too late—and Andersonville was the center of the stage in the little romance.

An Associated press dispatch from Charlotte, Mich., tells the sad story in the following way:

Ralph Butler, age twenty, is convinced of two things:

First, that a man's a fool to let father know when he intends to marry.

Second, that he is the champion hard luck suitor in this section.

Young Butler fell in love with Miss Daisy Woods. After an ardent wooing, Daisy said yes, and they were to have the nuptial knot tied beyond all hope of disentanglement Tuesday at Andersonville, Ind., where the girl has an aunt.

Butler went to Andersonville, according to schedule, but when he arrived he learned, to his utter dismay, that his father, having himself fallen a victim to the smiles of Miss Daisy, had beaten him. Father Butler, who recently got a divorce, had trekked in haste to Andersonville, got the girl and married her in Evansville.

Nancy C. Murdock, through her attorneys, Stevens & Carson, has filed suit for support against her husband, Isaiah Murdock. She alleges that he, without cause, deserted her on October 1, and that since that time he has refused to support her and her two children by a former husband. She says in her complaint that her husband now owns a grocery store in Manila and is able to contribute to her support. She says she has taken in washings and tried to make a living, but that she is not able to continue doing this. She asks the court to order her husband to contribute $4 a week toward her support. She Was Dissatisfied.

ACCOMPANIED BY MINISTER

Speaking of the removal of Mrs. Mary Budd to the Home for Friendless Women at Richmond, the Carthage Citizen says:

"Aunt" Mary Budd, who, about two months ago was taken from her home in Carthage to the Rush county infirmary, was removed from that institution, Wednesday, to the Home for Friendless Women, South 10th street, Richmond. Rev. C. O. Whitely, her former pastor, accompanied her. "Aunt Mary" although comfortably situated at Rushville, was very dissatisfied; and really desiring of better surroundings and companionship than was her lot there. For some time efforts have been made to find a new home for her. The one to which she has been taken, at Richmond, was founded by the late Rhoda Coffin and adjoins the 10th street park, and it is a pleasant haven for the aged and infirm.

Madam Grace Tells Sheriff King How
She Recognized Criminal in New Castle.

IS WANTED IN NEW YORK CITY

Says it Was John Sweeney Who Shot
Man to Death August
29th.

From Friday's Daily.

It seems that a chain of circumstances are gradually weaving a net around John Sweeney, alias James Spencer, who is wanted by the police authorities of New York for shooting and killing William Woods in New York on the night of August 29, last.

Sheriff King received a notice from William Baker, police commissioner of New York City recently stating that Sweeney was wanted for the murder and gave a complete description, which would make it easy to recognize the man when once seen. The notice also said that Sweeney was thought to be in this State and a request was made to be continually on the lookout for him. He is a desperate character, having served time for burglary.

Yesterday evening, Madame Grace, a clairvoyant and mind reader, who is now here, came to Sheriff King with the story that she had seen the criminal in New Castle. Her story goes that she was at the L. E. & W. station with her husband waiting for a train to come to this city. They had purchased a ticket when she says that she noticed the peculiar actions of a man in the waiting room.

She made a remark to her husband that that man, pointing to him, was a criminal and said we will watch him to see what he will do. They went out on the platform, always keeping their gaze on the stranger. She says that the man shifted about from one foot to the other and finally managed it so that he was standing suspiciously close to their suit cases. She says they decided that he was making an attempt to get away with their baggage and they went back into the station for fear that they would be the losers in an attempt to locate a criminal.

They went back to the grips and when the train pulled out saw the strange man still standing on the platform. She claims to be a mind reader and says that the thing worried her all the way on her trip to this city as she was fully convinced that the man was a criminal and had escaped from justice. She says that was still on her mind when she walked into the postoffice here.

She says that the first thing which met her eye was the picture of the suspicious stranger in the depot at New Castle. She rushed to the picture and found it to be John Sweeney alias James Spencer, who was wanted in New York for murder. This only served to settle the matter in her mind which had been worrying her, according to her story and she says that her first thought was to notify the officers.

After hearing the story Sheriff King telephoned the sheriff of Henry county at New Castle and placed all of the facts in his hands. The Henry county sheriff said he would go to work on the case immediately and attempt to locate the criminal.

Farmers were scarce here today. Those who could not work didn't feel like coming through the driving rain, and the fact that many were here Thursday for the horse show also cut down the number of Saturday visitors considerably.

The funeral services of Mrs. Merritt Machlan, who died in Indianapolis were held at the old Machlan homestead near Gowdy this morning. Burial was in Moscow.

GET THE WANT AD HABIT--IT PAYS

BODY HIDDEN IN LARGE TRUNK?

Strange Odor at the Traction Station
Causes Near Sensation in This City.

ELSIE SIEGEL CASE RECALLED

Man Who Had Theory is Ready to Solve Problem When Mystery is Explained.

It looked suspicious. There was the big trunk which had been in the traction station for two days. To whom it belonged nobody knew. And there was a peculiar odor in the room. The longer the trunk remained the stronger the odor got.

Then somebody who had read about Elsie Siegel's body being concealed in a trunk had a theory. It was not a clue, so Bill Pea was not called to work on the case. However, the odor kept getting stronger all the time. Then this person who had read about Elsie in the trunk decided that there had been a murder. He got all worked up over it and the more he thought about it the more he was sure he had the right theory. He didn't say anything about it to Henry Morris, porter at the station, because he wanted all the honor of solving the mystery himself. And the odor kept getting louder.

The man who knew about Elsie was about ready to spring the sensation. He had decided that the time was ripe. Henry was sure something was ripe, but didn't have the time in mind. He kept looking and the odor kept smelling. Henry was getting mad over it. He of the murder theory was getting red in the face with excitement.

"Say I have an—" began the murderer theorist.

"What's that up there?" interrupted Henry as he saw a basket in an unusual place.

"I was saying that I had an idea about—" again put in the other man.

"I believe that odor comes from that basket," said Henry as he started toward it.

The nearer he got the surer he was that he was right. He took the basket down and there it was. Not Elsie's body, but some ordinary scrap meat which a passenger had bought for his dog.

"Gee, I'm glad to find that," said Henry as he held it out at arm's length.

"Curses!" said the theorist in true Lincoln Carter style.

MANY HEIRS IN THIS COUNTY

Theodore Applegate of Spiceland was here today settling the estate of Margaret Applegate, deceased, who died at her home in Buffalo, N. Y., about a year ago. The majority of the heirs to the estate live in this county. The husband of Mrs. Applegate, Wilson Applegate, suddenly and mysteriously disappeared about thirty years ago and has never been seen or heard of since that time. He has long since been given up as dead and the estate will be equally divided among the other heirs.

CAMBRIDGE COULD GROW

Cites Rushville as an Example of Energetic Spirit.

Cambridge City Tribune: Rushville has perfected an organization to promote the growth of that city by locating factories through the sale of lots. New Castle, Connersville, Hagerstown and Richmond are growing steadily. Now, what will Cambridge City do? Lay down? Why no! The good effect of the Business Men's Association and the splendid growth last year are all potent in further advancement, and it only remains to get together and work together to keep Cambridge City in the forefront. Do you want it?

WORK IS MOVING FAST ON NEW ROAD

Ripley Township End of Highway
From Carthage to Mays is Progressing Rapidly.

AMONG BEST IN THE COUNTY

Work on the Ripley township end of the road from Carthage to Mays is progressing nicely, says the Carthage Citizen. The east mile is graded and the road east from the Big Four R. R. is being graded. A fine cement arch has been built near Alexander's and the hill is being cut five feet. Because of this it is necessary to move most of the fences and the telephone poles. When completed it will be one of the finest roads in the country, and the improvements will greatly increase travel over this highway. Excellent gravel is obtained from the Alexander, Gates and Henley pits. W. L. Walker is superintendent of the road.

GOOD!

Shelbyville Republican: Rushville and Shelbyville are vying with each other to see which can secure the most factories and grow most in industrial conditions.

HARD, TOO!

BODY TO LIE IN STATE AT CHURCH

Friends of Professor David Graham
May Call at United Presbyterian Church Monday.

HE DIED AS HE HAD LIVED

"Grand Old Man" After Repeating
Prayer Went to Sleep Never to Awake Again.

The body of Professor David Graham will lie in state at the United Presbyterian church Monday from 11 a. m. until the hour of the funeral service at 1:30 p. m. Friends are welcome to call at the church during that time.

The announcement of the death of Mr. Graham was a deep shock to the city and to other cities where he was well known. His circle of friends was not limited to Rushville, but he was especially well known at Columbus and Franklin, where he often visited his daughters.

The religious principles of his life were carried out by Mr. Graham up to the very minute of his death, and his religion made death easy for him. Mr. Graham was unconscious practically all day Thursday and he did not recognize his daughters. A short time before his death yesterday morning he seemed to become semi-conscious at least and called for the Bible. The children who were at his bedside read a chapter from the Bible and the expression on his face indicated his unflinching trust in the words they read. Then Mr. Graham repeated the Lord's prayer, asked to be turned over and peacefully went to sleep never to wake up again. He died as he had lived—peaceful and happy in the faith.

The funeral services will be held at the United Presbyterian church Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. W. H. Clark. Burial will be in East Hill cemetery.

Arrangements have been made for the school children, to whom Professor was a dear friend, to call at the church and see the body.

PAGER NEARLY LOST HER LIFE

Accident in Early Life of Lady Maud
C. in Which She Barely Escaped Death.

CUT IN A BARBED WIRE FENCE

J. C. Crabtree Tried to Give Her
Away—Accounts For Ugly Scar on Her Breast.

There is an incident in the life of Lady Maud C., the senior partner of the firm of Lady Maud C. and Hedge-wood Boy, smashers of world's records to the pole, which might have lost her to the race track, had it come to pass as her owner, J. C. Crabtree, had wished it.

In the early days of the now fast pair, Mr. Crabtree lived on a farm, near Hillsboro, Ill., and used the team to do the work around the place. They were generally turned out in pasture at night. One night Lady Maud C. (her name was just plain Maud then before she got a reputation) in some unknown manner became entangled in the barbed wire fence around the field. Before she got out of the predicament she was severely cut on the breast over the right front leg.

Mr. Crabtree discovered her the next morning and led her to the barn to examine her wounds. His heart sank within him when he examined them more closely as it then looked like she could never get well. He did not know then what kind of speed she had and of course was not so reluctant to see her go only the fact that he would lose a good general purpose horse.

He was discouraged and did not want to take the time to attempt to cure her. So accordingly he tried to give her to a young man on an adjoining farm. He told the young man he did not wish to take the time to cure her and told him he could have her if he would take her and heal her wounds. But the young man refused after he saw the seriousness of the cuts as he felt that she would never be worth anything.

After he could not give her away he left her in his barn to die and did not give her much treatment. But surprising as it was to him her wounds began to heal gradually and it was not long before she was able to work. It was not long after that he discovered that the pair had some speed.

This story accounts for the large and ugly scar on Lady Maud C.'s breast just above her right front leg. Many people have been anxious to know the cause of the mark and the fact that Lady Maud C. nearly lost her life makes it all the more interesting.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED.

By local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists. 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

WILL HAVE HORSE SHOW.

Knightstown will hold a horse show Thursday and Friday of next week. They are planning to give a record breaking show. It is very probable that some Rush county horse flesh will be entered.

BY TRACTION TO ANDERSONVILLE

Another Scheme Lying Around Waiting For Promoters to Make an Unlimited Amount of Money.

WOULD REACH SHELBYVILLE

And Then go to Several Other Towns and Connect With the I. & C.
Line.

Every change of the moon there is some new traction line project announced. Most of them are rumors, it is true, but sometimes these rumors come true. Some are day dreams but day dreams come true.

The Andersonville Herald has its share of the dope and hands out this batch:

When Dr. Dunn, now of Indianapolis was located here, long before the building of the I. & C. traction, he drew a plan for the building of a traction line through this section, forming almost a circle. Starting at Rushville he drew the imaginary line to Shelbyville, thence to Hope, on to Greensburg and passed through Batesville to Harrison, up the valley to Brookville, thence west through Metamora, Laurel, Andersonville and New Salem to Rushville. The distance is something like 140 miles and the project has at least two points in its favor, viz.: the line passes through a territory all the way that is not opened by traction. It connects at Rushville, Shelbyville and Greensburg with the I. & C. and at Harrison with the Harrison & Cincinnati traction. There is no doubt that such a line would pay and why should not promoters be as willing to take up this scheme as any other?

GAME OF DARE DANGEROUS

"Kids" Try to Touch Autos as They Whizz By.

Persons driving automobiles about the city complain of a practice of children daring one another to stand the nearest to a machine when it goes whizzing by. The boy or girl who can touch the machine with the hand has a high rating in the "kid" code.

This is a most dangerous pastime and but for the extra care it entails on drivers, serious accidents might have resulted ere this. The "game" is much practiced after school.

THIS AND THAT

By the way don't forget that if you wish to read next Monday's paper you will have to see that your tag is right.

Really this is one of the days when you ought to be glad you are living just to enjoy this weather.

The man who can meet a difficulty with a smile and a look of determination backing it up, is usually the man who is happy and gets along in this world.

Certainly there can be no regrets though that the supposed body of a human in a trunk at the traction station turned out to be merely some scrap meat for a dog.

A paper carried the headline, "Big Money For Rice." A hasty reader saw it and began kicking about the cost of living, while Alonzo, L., the poet, kept getting bigger checks and enjoying life.

It must make Lady Maud C. feel good to think that she put one over the fellow who wouldn't take her as a gift because he thought she was going to die.

Wait until we get a traction line to Andersonville! Even the thoughts of it listens good.

When they do finally get that Wilson murder case out of the way, the Fayette circuit court will surely be a mighty lonesome place.

Here's Where the Fun Comes In

"Could you tell me the name of the song published in the Republican Saturday?" said a voice at the other end of the line.

"Could I," replied the voice at this end.

"Yes, could you tell me the name of the song Saturday?"

"Could I," again replied the voice in this office.

"Say what's the matter with you? Yes, COULD YOU TELL ME THE NAME OF THE SONG IN SATURDAY'S REPUBLICAN?" and the voice at the other end of the line was getting angry.

"Yes. Could I. That's the name of the song. Could I."

"Oh I beg your pardon," and the voice at the other end of the line used a much gentler tone.

SOCIETY NEWS

Speaking of the wedding of Miss Ethel Rogers, who is well known in this city, the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune says:

The wedding of Miss Ethel Elene Rogers, daughter of Dean William P. Rogers, of the Cincinnati Law School and Mr. Minloch Marshall Turner of Terre Haute, Ind., was celebrated Saturday night at 8:30 at the home of the bride's parents on Ashland avenue. The ceremony was preceded by the singing of "Native Worth," from "The Creation," by a friend of the family, Mr. B. F. Miller of Rushville, Ind. The bride entered to the music of the Mendelssohn wedding march, her father giving her in marriage. The maid of honor was the bride's sister, Miss Norine Rogers, and the flower girl was her little sister, Miss Kathryn Rogers. The best man was Mr. Jay Lee Turner, a brother of the groom. The decorations of the house were Southern smilax and pink and white roses. Among the out of town guests were:

Mr. L. L. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Turner, Miss Janet Turner, Miss Lyle Turner, Mr. Marshall Turner, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Walker, Terre Haute, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. The following from the Greenfield Tribune is of interest here: Mrs. P. A. Sunderland entertained a number of guests Friday afternoon at a card party, "500" being the game. There were four tables and a very pleasant time was enjoyed. Mrs. Oakley Wells and Mrs. Guy Green of Indianapolis were the only out-of-town guests. Refreshments of escalloped oysters, salad, pickles, preserves, hot biscuits, coffee, mints and sherbert were served. The hostess was assisted by Miss Ethel Garriott. Mrs. Wells and Mrs. Joseph Pyle sang a number of selections.

A family reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morelock, living near Farmers, last Friday and those from a distance were: Jacob D. Morelock, Theo. Morelock and family, Gladys Alley, all of Franklin county; Marion Morelock and family, John Morelock and family of Tipton county, Commodore Morelock and family of Portland, Oregon, and Mrs. Mary Rettenmeier and family of this county.

Sick Headache

"I have been a frequent sufferer from sick headache for years, yet never would use headache tablets. My son persuaded me to use Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills during one of these attacks, and to my surprise it gave me speedy relief."

MRS. LOUISE LEWELLYN,

Powell, S. D. When the disturbance which causes headache affects the nerves at the base of the brain, which connect with the large nerves that run to the stomach, heart and lungs, it frequently causes headache with vomiting—sick headache.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills soothe the irritated brain nerves and the cause of pain is removed. The first package will benefit. If not, your druggist will return your money.

Square Deal For the Railroads, But They Must Reciprocate.

By WADE H. ELLIS, Assistant to the Attorney General.

WITH respect to gigantic combinations of capital engaged in a purely public service, like the railroads, there is no need of any limitation whatever upon their right to make mutual agreements. Why? Because such agreements do not and cannot control prices, since the charges imposed for the service are controllable by the state or by the nation itself.

THEREFORE THERE IS NO REASON WHY THE ANTI-TRUST ACT SHOULD APPLY TO RAILROADS AT ALL. THEY ARE OUTSIDE THE REASON FOR THE LAW AND OUGHT NOT TO BE WITHIN ITS TERMS.

The RAILROADS MUST BE ENCOURAGED to keep pace with the industry of the country. It is a lamentable fact that railroad facilities in recent years HAVE NOT RESPONDED TO THE COMMERCIAL GROWTH of the country. With the estimated need of seven to eight billion dollars within the next twenty years for railroad building in this country no policy must be adopted which will retard the natural development of transportation facilities, the first and foremost essential of all business prosperity.

While it is true, however, that traffic agreements and pools between railroads, now forbidden by the anti-trust act, ought not to be forbidden, it is NOT TRUE that a necessary condition to railroad improvement is that ALL GOVERNMENTAL SUPERVISION SHALL CEASE.

In my judgment he is likely to be disappointed who predicts a RETREAT ALONG THE LINE OF RAILROAD SUPERVISION BY THE GOVERNMENT, and he is mistaken who asserts that the issuance of railroad securities is NONE OF THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS.

THE RAILROADS ARE NOT ENGAGED IN PRIVATE BUSINESS. THEY ARE PUBLIC SERVANTS. THE ADEQUACY OF THEIR SERVICE, THE FAIR RETURN UPON THE MONEY INVESTED, THE SAFETY AND COMPENSATION OF THEIR EMPLOYEES AND THE HONEST MANAGEMENT OF THE BUSINESS ARE MATTERS OF PUBLIC CONCERN, AND THE SOONER THIS IS REALIZED THE SOONER WILL THE RAILROADS RECEIVE THAT MEASURE OF PUBLIC SUPPORT AND PROTECTION WHICH COME FROM PUBLIC CONFIDENCE.

BEAUTY. BEAUTY was born of the world's desire For the wandering water, the wandering fire, Under the arch of her hurrying feet She has trodden a world full of bitter-sweet.

The blood of the violet is in her veins. Her pulse has the passion of April rains. Out of the heart of a satin flower God made her eyelids in one sweet hour.

Out of the wind he made her feet That they might be lovely and luring and fleet. Out of a cloud he wove her hair, Heavy and black with the rain held there.

What is her name? There's none that knows— Mother-o'-mischief or Mother-o'-rose. What is her pathway? None may tell, But it climbs to heaven, and it dips to hell.

The garment on her is mist and fire, Anger and sorrow and heart's desire, Her forehead jewel's an amethyst, The garland to her is love in a mist.

Her girdle is of the beryl stone. And one dark rose for her flower has grown, Filled to the brim with the strength o' the sun, A passionate rose and only one. —Nora Hopper.

Probably the smallest baby in Indiana is Twannette Lorene, known as the "live doll," daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Thomas of Portland, which at an age of a little over seven weeks weighs only four and a half pounds. At birth, August 27, the little girl weighed five pounds. Two weeks later it was found its weight had decreased until it barely tipped the scales at three and a half pounds. Since then she has gained a pound.

The baby is kept in an incubator basket prepared by keeping a hot sad-iron in the bottom of a basket over which are several layers of blankets, and on them the baby is placed.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

BUSINESS RUSHING.

(New Castle Courier.)

The possibilities of the Maxwell-Briscoe Motor company are wonderful and the business annually is doubling. In 1908 the company did $6,000,000 worth of business. This year the figures reach the enormous sum of $13,000,000 and Benj. Briscoe, general manager, stated that next year the company could very easily push the total up to $20,000,000, the only handicap being the scarcity of houses in New Castle.

Mr. Briscoe expresses entire satisfaction over the way people have built this summer and fall. The company is by no means through extending its immense plan here, but operations will be dropped for the winter along this line. When houses are available it is believed that Mr. Briscoe will bring in several factories, independent of the automobile industry. He stated Friday that all he had to do was to tell the directors of at least a half dozen manufacturing plants to come to New Castle. He deemed it inadvisable, however, at this time because houses are not available.

Extensions at the big factory will probably be taken up early next year. The demand for Maxwells is growing to such proportions that the company must build more machines. The company has issued orders to build 20,000 cars this season. All the branches have already commenced work on various parts, etc.

TABLE-CLOTH IS A FAMILY RELIC

Reunion of Ball Family and Tenth Wedding Anniversary Celebrated Sunday.

BROUGHT BACK SAD MEMORIES

Old Spread Used Yesterday Has Been in the Family Circle Over Half Century.

This is not a story of a tablecloth, but of a family reunion and wedding anniversary combined. The descendants of William Ball gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Ormes in North Sexton street, celebrating the tenth anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Ormes and also the annual Ball family reunion.

The elaborate dinner was spread on the old tablecloth which has been in the family for over a half-century. It was purchased fifty-three years ago of a Jewish peddler and has been kept within the family circle all these years. It has been in the possession of four children and two grandchildren of the deceased. Mrs. J. W. Oldham of Kingsby, Mich., who has had the old relic over twenty-three years, took the occasion yesterday to present it to Mrs. Arnold Ormes and it will be left in her care.

Another very interesting feature of the day was the showing of the administrator's sale bill, which was printed fifty-five years ago, shortly after William Ball's death. This brought back many sad memories to the children of the deceased. This is the first time with one exception that the eight children have been together for twenty-three years.

The family visited Ball's chapel, northeast of the city today. Those present were:

Mrs. Mary Andrews and daughter, Belle, of Shelbyville, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Abernathy of Indianapolis; Mrs. J. W. Oldham of Kingsby, Mich.; J. E. An entire change of program will be shown tonight at the Vaude with a new film and a new song-hit.

The Star-Grand offers two subjects tonight. The first is entitled "The Female Sleuth," which is dramatic and shows some very clever detective work. The second subject is a hand colored trick film entitled "The Music Lesson." Earl Robertson will sing "Redhead," and in addition to the regular program Mr. Clayton P. Hufford will sing one of his character songs. This will give an extra strong bill, but the price will remain the same—all seats five cents.

The Palace will have the film "The Ordeal" tonight. This play is dramatized from Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables." The film presents the second chapter of the life of the famous convict and is told in a highly dramatic and entertaining way. The story is told with his past record unknown. Through his acts of benevolence he attains a position of authority and respect. The song at the Palace tonight will be "Won't You Waltz Home Sweet Home With Me For Old Times' Sake."

Are Interested In Corn Exhibits

Now is the time when the farmers and corn growers are interested in the selection of their seed corn and the corn they expect to enter in the several contests for prizes in the county, State and National contests to be held in Omaha in December. The present season, which has been favorable to the growth of corn throughout, along with the improved methods of selecting and propagating a better and higher standard of corn, doubtless will make the competition and display the sharpest and best of all the corn exhibits known in the history of King Corn.

Just what the Boys' Corn club has done in this county the present season has not been made public, but if they have done as well as they did last, when there was such a scarcity of rain, we may expect the finest and best display of corn ever seen in Rush county and samples that will transfer the honors from Johnson county to this county.

The rivalry to excel in growing corn has not been in vain, for it has created a determination among the farmers to test the producing and earning powers of their farms and a farm is now bought or sold and valued by its earning power, the price paid being $75 to $100 per acre for the cheapest, while $200 per acre has been refused for the best.

No doubt many farmers who have fields of corn that will yield 65, 75 and 85 bushels of corn per acre believe it to be the limit of their soil. However, it is necessary to take exceptions with these good farmers in saying, while the yields mentioned look good it is also necessary to surpass these figures to meet the increasing demands for corn to get a fair return from the high priced land.

That corn culture and corn breeding is yet in its infancy and that there is much room for the improvement of corn in quality and yield as there was in live stock forty years ago, is no longer an assertion, but an actual fact. Not a few corn growers believe we have neared the time when the farmers will grow registered varieties of corn just the same as they have been growing registered live stock with like results, and then and not until then will the limits in the yield of corn and the true earning power of farms be known.

The Boys' Corn club and Farmers' Institute of this county have given much time and labor to the selection and cultivation of corn and have been instrumental in developing one of the largest and best crops of corn ever grown in the county. And to keep their place in the front ranks with the progressive corn growers of the State and Nation, must keep in touch with all the new methods of breeding and cultivating.

GUMPTION ON THE FARM

From October Farm Journal.

Better have patches on your pants, than a lot of unpaid bills and threatening creditors.

How can any man sleep well at night when he has whipped and scolded his horses all day.

Beginning to think about your wood-pile? That's right. Cold nights make us creep up about the stove.

Enough dry wood and chips to last a week ahead is riches; fire out and the last stick gone is poverty.

If you tell a boy, day after day, that he isn't earning his salt, he will soon be likely to work down to that estimate.

If the soil needs underdraining, now is an excellent time to lay the tiles. They should be at least two and a half feet deep.

Don't give the crabs and dogs stale, dirty or soapy water to drink. See that it is clean and fresh. You know how it is yourself.

It pays better to be behind everybody else in getting fall grain sowed, and thus have the ground well stirred, than to hog over it and have it half done.

Money spent on booze is wasted, spent on clothes is vanity, spent on food is gone, and fooled away is wicked; but money spent for seed or a fruit tree is wisely invested.

The patrons along a rural route are apt to expect too much from the carrier. It would be a great help to the farmer to apply to the government for a copy of the postal laws in reference to the regulation of rural carriers.

Are you planning to build a new house this fall? Don't make it too large. Many houses are so large that the women folks are kept scrubbing a good share of the time. Large enough for all practical purposes, but no larger, should be the rule.

In an address on the subject of corn, Professor Beal remarked that the top-most ear was the best for seed; of two fields, one planted with seed taken at random and the other selected in the field, the latter yielded as much again as the former.

If rye is sowed this fall as a green manure for potatoes next season, I believe it would be better to plow it under next spring after it gets a good start and not wait till it gets tall. Then the rye will rot better before planting time and you will get more good from it.

Keeping cabbages: Select a dry place in the patch, pull up the cabbages and stand closely together, heads down. Cover with soil from five to ten inches, thinly at first so they will not heat, covering only enough to prevent freezing as the season advances. The burying beds may be made from four to six feet wide.

The following method will appeal to every farmer as the easiest, quickest and least expensive plan for storing all kinds of fruit and vegetables, from a potato to a pumpkin: Arrange the fruit or vegetables in a long row, as high and as wide as would seem advisable. Spread a little hay over them, and set up fodder on each side of the desired thickness—say, three or four feet. This affords excellent protection from ordinary cold; and in the case of pumpkin, turnip or cabbage storage, or any other article fed to stock, you have the means at hand with which to form a most desirable balanced ration as you feed out the corn and fodder. This method will prove especially valuable to renters and others who are compelled to move in the spring, when it would be extremely unhandy to chop through the frozen ground, and "fish out" fruit or vegetables from the old-fashioned "hole" or pit.

—Mrs. George Monjar and daughter, Helen, returned last night from a brief visit with friends in Indianapolis.

HAWLEY, COLLECTOR OF RAILROAD LINES

Hailed as Harriman's Successor In That Respect.

DEFEATED THE LATTER ONCE.

Ever Afterward the "Railway King" Fought Shy of the Quiet Man Whose Ambition Is Bounded by Work—He Controls Thousands of Miles.

"I have no recipe for success," said Edwin Hawley, railroad man, in reply to a question. "I have no ambition except to work—work hard. And I am a good waiter, a mighty good waiter, and things come when you wait long enough."

Work has indeed been the means of gaining for Mr. Hawley the position in the railroad world which will make him soon the successor of the late Edward H. Harriman—that is, if he does not already hold that position. Mr. Hawley has practically acquired a chain of railroads from sea to sea against the determined opposition of rivals. He has worked silently for years gathering in transportation properties which others referred to as second class, properties which his management turned into dividend earners. He has worked so unostentatiously and has said so little to any one that Wall street has scarcely known him and has thought of him only to smile.

Bumped Mr. Harriman. There is no closing the door of opportunity to men like Edwin Hawley. Some men, a few, watched him because they recognized his worth. Edward H. Harriman never forgot him for a day. He had good reason to remember him. Harriman bumped into one of Hawley's plans once and found Hawley immediately behind it. Wall street gossips say that no one ever encountered Harriman antagonistically without coming out somewhat scarred up financially until Edwin Hawley came along. There were plenty of evidences in the later years of Harriman's life to prove that he had no desire to fight Hawley.

All of which leads to Wall street. If there is anything this district admires it is success. The more a man succeeds there the more he is looked up to and praised and petted as the "great Mr. So-and-so." While Edwin Hawley was buying up "second class railroads" he received precious little attention, as was indicated awhile ago, but once the country began to hear of this and that line and a link here and another there and the possibility of a transcontinental system Wall street got down on its metaphorical knees and beloveted its high regard. When Mr. Hawley sold the Colorado and Southern—something of a railroad, by the way, with about 2,000 miles of track—to James J. Hill for a whopping big price and at once bought the Chesapeake and Ohio, 1,840 miles in length and representing something like $175,000,000, all without using a megaphone, Wall street almost had paralysis. This, the wise financiers admitted, was some railroading.

Beginning of Hawley. To get into the breach that grew up between the two men Hawley and Harriman one has to go back to Hawley's beginning, because it leads logically to the ultimate conclusion. He was born in Chatham, N. Y., about fifty-nine years ago. He was only a youngster, possibly eighteen or nineteen years old, when he entered the commission business, about which Wall street likes to tell. No riches appearing in that line, he went to New York and got into a little tugboat business. Here, again, the money was slow in coming, so slow that Hawley became a clerk in the general offices of the Erie railway.

After awhile he went to the Ohio and Mississippi. About the time of this service he became acquainted in some way not recorded with the late Collis P. Huntington, author and owner of the Southern Pacific railroad. Mr. Huntington put him in charge of the New York office, which then had much to do with a large number of railroads and steamship lines. Hawley's success with these properties was striking. It attracted attention to his executive and organizing ability. Nevertheless when Edward H. Harriman came into power and the occasion arose to put some one into a post of large responsibility Edwin Hawley did not get the promotion, so he resigned and started out for himself with a feeling in his heart not kindly for the new leader of Southern Pacific. Hawley's friends declare that to him rather than to Harriman belongs the credit for reorganizing the Southern Pacific. At any rate, the two men quarreled, and they never completely made it up in after life.

List of Hawley's Roads.

Here is a list of the roads now credited to Mr. Hawley, all of which have been acquired since the quarrel:

	Miles.
Minneapolis and St. Louis	1,027
Iowa Central	558
Chesapeake and Ohio	1,840
Chicago and Alton	994
Toledo, St. Louis and Western	451
Hocking Valley	347
Toledo and Ohio Central	441
Missouri, Kansas and Texas	2,750
Operated by the M. K. and T.	272

Total Hawley control 7,932

Nothing can keep Hawley and his friends from the Pacific slope, because Hawley now controls, in addition to all the eastern lines, the Chicago and Alton, which has developed wonderfully in recuperative powers; the Toledo, St. Louis and Western, known as the Clover Leaf; he is as important a part of the Western Pacific as is George Gould and as strong in the Rock Island as Mr. Harriman was, and goodness only knows how strong now since Mr. Harriman's death; he and his associates own the Missouri, Kansas and Texas—the Katy—and are declared to have made at least a traffic arrangement with the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient, which will take their business to the Pacific coast.

Furthermore, they are expected to build a connecting link in the Minneapolis and St. Louis which will give Kansas City another direct line to St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Big Financial Backers.

These transactions have amazed Wall street the more because no one knows just who is behind Hawley. The crowd knows that the syndicate must represent vast wealth because of the power it wields. It is certain that Hawley and James J. Hill are fast friends, and that might presage anything in creation, Theodore P. Shonts, Thomas F. Ryan, Paul Morton, Speyer & Co., Fisk & Robinson and others mighty in money matters in New York; Henry Walters in Baltimore, John J. Mitchell and Joy Morton in Chicago are names that stand for everything in railroad selling and buying, names to use in building great schemes, and all tied to the name of Edwin Hawley. They are men who have done big things, men certain to stick to a man who is wizard enough to take a bankrupt road and place it on a 4 per cent basis, as Hawley did with the Chesapeake and Ohio.

And through it all he is silent or at least so provocatively uncommunicative that few know much about him. He is of that class physically which the world calls little, rather small in stature, with a large head and a forehead indicating great brain power, great concentration. He is gray haired, has deep set eyes, a strong face, on which there is no beard or mustache to hide the character lines; clean cut, well arrayed, quiet mannered—one of the coolest heads in the financial world of the country.

Hawley Has Millions.

No one knows how wealthy he is. It has been estimated that he is worth twenty millions, but owing to recent successful operations this is believed to be far below the level. He has no marble palace. He makes no splurge in society. No one seems to know anything about his home except that it is shut away from the curious and is a quiet life in a brownstone house of four stories 21 3/4 West Fifty-sixth street, New York. No one has ever seen anything in the papers about his family. He belongs to a few clubs and takes a live interest in sports, including golf, riding and driving and motor-touring—activities which prove him by no means a mere money grubber or a recluse. He is president of or director in no one knows how many companies. He is financially interested in banks, brokerage businesses, copper mines, coal mines, bridge building, car couplers, lighting and heating, real estate and railroads. It is believed he is the actual head of more miles of railroad than any man except possibly James J. Hill.

BUILT OF OLD WARSHIP.

Timbers From the British Ship Wellington Used in American Home.

In the residence which I. N. Phelps Stokes is building at Greenwich, Conn., the timbers of the Wellington, once a British battleship, will find final repose.

The timbers will be used as rafters in the great dining room and as supports of the new house, which Mr. Stokes is having constructed at an estimated cost of $200,000.

The Wellington has many historic associations, but Mr. Stokes when he bought the timbers was indulging no antiquarian tendencies. His idea was to get a good, strong wood. The wood is teak, which has great durability. There are firms in England which make a specialty of breaking up old vessels to procure this wood.

FAST WORK ON THE FACTORY ADDITION

Winship & Son Rushing Contract For Badly Needed Improvement at Francis Brothers.

GETTING OTHER INDUSTRIES

Work on the new addition to the Francis Brothers factory is progressing rapidly. Morris Winship & Son have the contract and Mr. Winship has been superintending the work in person for a few days in order to hasten the completion of the addition which is badly needed by the factory. This addition to the factory indicates that Rushville industries are thriving and this is only one of the places where there is visible evidence of the prosperity which exists here.

Considerable work is being done by the Young Men's Commercial club and the older business men of the city toward the location of new industries. The headquarters are still open and people interested in the growth of the city are asked to call there and learn the details of the movement. The situation is now such that press publicity is not advisable, but all the work of the committees will be told to those who are interested.

THIS AND THAT

Of course you know the day is cold and dark and dreary, and that it rains but the wind is never weary. However, it is well to remember that some days must be dark and dreary, and "cheer up sad heart and cease repining, behind the clouds the sun's still shining."

Oh you horrid father! If your son refuses to tell where he goes on Sunday evening now don't blame him, for he knows about the father who eloped with his son's fiancée.

Begins to look as though the low cuts and short sleeves would have to be put in store until next spring. Still there may be some warm days yet, so don't be too sure in making the change.

Lose an umbrella? Oh that's all right. That's what they are made for.

Great chance for the candidates to throw mud on these rainy days. And, by the way, that's about the only kind of mud they will throw here.

It may be all right for Shelbyville to snarl and snap over the city campaign, but when you are twenty miles away it looks like it's mighty hard on General Harmony who is trying to make the city grow.

From the number of rummage sales announced it seems that somebody is going to be minus some clothes. Better tell your wife to save your best suit anyway.

Might as well begin to think about Christmas for you know you like to meet trouble half way.

Early Corn Gathering In General Favor Now

Farmers Believe More Spoils In the Field Than in the Crib

The corn husking season is just beginning. Up and down the county the farmers have worked a little at it for several days, using care to put the grain in well ventilated cribs and to pile it together only in small quantities. On the higher lands, as usual, the work is not quite so well advanced, but everywhere it is beginning, and the usual scarcity of help confronts the owners of fields. Many of them engage their help long months ahead and are now glad they did so, for it is next to impossible now to find anyone who had experience in corn husking whose service are not already engaged.

With the opening of the season, the husking time the usual amount of sage comment, regarding the dangers of cribbing too early, is going the rounds in rural districts, but the saying that "more corn spoils in the field than in the crib" has sunk deep into the minds of most farmers. The results is that, in a general way, corn is gathered and safely stored in the barns or pens some weeks earlier than it was a few years ago. It has not been many years since the idea that corn was unfit to crib until it has stood a hard freeze was held by many a grain grower. When this prevails the work of husking was much more severe, and by slow degrees the idea, which seems to have had little foundation in fact, was entirely outgrown.

Another departure from the practice of a few years ago is fast becoming general here. That is in the matter of husking corn clean. While silk ribbons of husk on an ear were a thorn in the flesh of the farmers a generation back, a large per cent. of the grain now husked is "ripped up the side and broken out" to use the gatherers' expression, a process which, while it leaves some husk on most of the ears, greatly hastening the gathering of the crop. It is objected to by many on the ground that it invites rats and mice into the cribs, but those whose practice it declare that the time it saves more than pays for the grain the rodents destroy.

Proves War Incident True

The Greensburg Review has taken a recent accident to prove an incident in the civil war. Here it is:

History repeats itself and subsequent events sometimes proves the truth of a story that was not believed in its way.

Once in war times a soldier was court-martialed for stealing a turkey. His only excuse was that the turkey tried to bite him. He escaped punishment for this offense, largely on account of his novel plea.

A short time afterward the same hungry soldier was brought up before the "drum head" tribunal on the charge of having stolen a pig for mess purposes.

He confidently entered a plea of guilty but claimed justification in the fact that the pig had tried to bite him—that it had even chased him.

The court sentenced him to extra guard duty, and the offense was expiated, but here comes a story from Rush county, well authenticated, that goes a long way in proving that a hog will both bite and chase after all.

Aside from the names mentioned the story is of interest for the facts.

It is, that Frank Thomas, living near Milroy, is still suffering from the effects of the attacks of a vicious hog a few weeks ago. A sow belonging to Eph Buell had wandered away from its own reservation and was in the pasture of Perry Bartlett. When Thomas attempted to drive it out it objected and trouble followed. The sow attacked him, chased him, caught him, threw him down and then kept on with its vicious assault. His clothing was almost all torn from his body and several wounds were inflicted on his legs. The sow was finally beaten off with a club.

easy to borrow money now and that there is much money waiting investment. Some of these times there will be a bunch of outsiders come along and build this road and after it is operating there will be a lot of people wondering why they did not get into the game when they had the chance."

BAD LUCK IN BUNCHES.

(Shelbyville Republican.)

The old saying that misfortune never come singly was well illustrated by a series of mishaps which occurred Thursday in the life of Harve Oakley, the East Washington street confectioner. If it had been Friday, or the thirteenth, Harve might have been a new convert in the mysticisms of superstition, but as the matter now stands he can only sing "Thursday always was my Jonah day."

To start the series of misfortunes, Harve sat down on a brand new stiff hat belonging to Galvy Whaley, while returning to this city on an I. & C. traction car Thursday evening. Whaley had just purchased the hat in Indianapolis.

He arrived home without further mishaps, but a few hours later received a telephone message from the Calosseum rink stating that his wife had fallen down the balcony stairs at the rink and was badly injured. He hurried to the rink and found that Mrs. Oakley had sustained a number of painful bruises about the face and was almost completely dazed by the fall. He accompanied her home in a cab and had just begun to think that his troubles were ended when she inquired about a package of groceries which she had ordered during the day.

Mr. Oakley went out on the back porch to look for the goods, but could find no trace of them. He called up the grocery store and was told that the goods had been delivered. The delivery boy swears that he placed the groceries on the back porch and Mr. Oakley was forced to the conclusion that a thief had visited the place and stolen the groceries. The police were notified of the theft, but no traces of the stolen goods have yet been discovered. The last misfortune cost Harve about eleven dollars and by the time he was ready to retire for the night he was thoroughly convinced that he had been born under an unlucky star. Friday, however, he was able to observe philosophically that life is just one thing after another, anyhow.

BLUE SHIRT SAVES THEM.

(Connersville News.)

A very near tragedy was enacted at the grade crossing of the C. H. & D. railroad at Tyner's Station Thursday afternoon. W. H. Chenoweth, William Semier, J. E. Moffett and William McMaly were at work with a heavy road scraper, drawn by six horses, and, in the course of their operations, started to cross the track with their implement. As they were passing over the rails the scraping blade of the contrivance caught on the rails in such a way they could neither go forward nor backward and the great weight of the scraper prevented them from lifting it out of the way. While they were busily working to free it from the track the screech of a coming train was heard and before they recovered from the first rush of terror a fast freight swept around the curve near the Fries brick yard and came thundering toward them.

J. E. Moffett snatched his blue blouse from the scraper where it lay and ran down the track toward the coming train, waving it madly in the air. The engineer seeing the signal, put on the brakes with all his might and managed to stop the train while the engine was still a few rods east of the crossing. The train crew then assisted the other men to move the scraper out of danger. If the engine had not stopped in time the scraper would have been destroyed and at least two of the horses would almost certainly have been killed.

Monthly Health Report

The monthly bulletin of the State Board of Health just issued for September says:

Typhoid fever was reported as the most prevalent disease, and the same was true for September, 1908. Diarrhoea was most prevalent in August. In the same month last year, 446 cases in 76 counties with 118 deaths.

Diphtheria was reported in 42 counties, 269 cases and 24 deaths; in the same month last year, 352 cases in 32 counties and 29 deaths.

Pneumonia caused 86 deaths and was 14th in prevalence. In the same month last year, 93 deaths and 14th in prevalence.

Consumption did its usual awful work. Total consumption deaths, 307. Males 142, females, 165. The disease killed 19 fathers and 58 mothers under 40 years of age, made 145 orphans under 12 years of age and invaded 290 homes and every county in the State. The preventable consumption is an awful thing to have around.

The total deaths from all causes was 2,660, rate 11.8. Same month last year 2,755 deaths, rate 12.3. By certain causes the deaths were diphtheria, 24; scarlet fever, 6; typhoid, 132; pneumonia, 36; consumption, 307; diarrhoeal diseases, 291; cancer, 145; violence, 179.

Not Fashionable To Get Drunk Now

When I Am Full
Send Me Home.
Street Address.....

No longer is it necessary for the convivial soul to carry such a card around with him on his New Year's calls, says Eugene Wood in Munsey's Magazine for November.

In discussing the growth of the prohibition sentiment, he says:

"Passing a law forbidding the sale of liquor is the formal expression of the profound conviction of the people that getting drunk is a low-down piece of business. As such, it is officially put in the same class with chicken-thieving. That part of the community which has self-respect, which wants to be somebody, which wants to make this a better and better world to live in—the greater part of the community just now—says authoritatively to the anti-social element that still sticks in the mud in spite of civilizing influence:

"If you must get drunk, get drunk, and joy go with you. But hereafter you'll have to do it on the sly, like any other deviltry."

"The nub of this whole movement, it seems to me, is not that it prevents the old soaks from getting enough liquor to enable them to come home and beat their wives and turn sick children out into the storm. It is not even that it tends to remove temptation from before the boys—and yet I wouldn't minimize that gracious act by a hair's weight. That is a mighty significant thing. It shows that we are coming to see more clearly every year that it doesn't so much matter about this present generation. We're made or marred already. But the coming generation matters a whole lot. About all we grown folks are good for is to provide that there shall be a fine stand of young folks coming on. There's many a mad man a father who would fight like a wildcat to keep the town from going 'dry' if it was only himself that he was looking out for, but who will march up to the polls like a little man and vote as 'dry' as ashes for his boy's sake. The old man likes his nip now and again, but it isn't good for boys—certainly not for his boy."

Small Farms in Demand

There are many kinds of farmers—the retired farmer, the front porch farmer, the telephone farmer, and the real farmer. Webster recognizes but one kind of farmer—the man who tills the soil. Farming by proxy has become a prohibitive field for speculation and investment but the so called "high price of living," which it is believed is here to stay, is forcing new conditions. The man who wants land for his own use, to till with his own hands, can afford to pay a little more than can the land speculator. And so the carving up of large farms has already begun in Indiana, especially near large cities or along traction lines.

There are many men in almost every calling who would like to go "back to the land" if they had the means, but a farm of 160, 80, or even 40 acres at present land prices is beyond their reach.

But these people are realizing that the product of ten acres now is worth what that of twenty acres used to be. The result is a growing demand for small tracts of land. A man in an adjoining county recently purchased a tract of 80 acres and was compelled to go in debt for it. The debt worried him before he had carried it long, and he was ready to make some sacrifice in order to dispose of the land. A friend said, "Don't do it. Offer half of the tract for a little more than you paid, and I will take a part of it myself and can find buyers for the rest." This was done and the man, who was worried, is smiling now. He has forty acres clear, is out of debt and made a small profit on his investment.

The smallest dog is probably the Chihuahua of Mexico. It can snuggle in the palm of the hand or may be concealed in a bunch of flowers.

HORSE SHOW A GREAT SUCCESS

Second Annual Fall Event is Pronounced on All Sides to be Best Ever.

NEXT YEAR'S PROSPECTS GOOD

Officials Are to be Congratulated on Their Untiring Efforts to Make Good.

The horse show has come and gone and it is pronounced the most successful event ever held here. Barring inclement weather, which marred the occasion to a certain extent, it would have surpassed the expectations of the most optimistic. Even as it was, the complete program with the exception of two or three events was all run off yesterday.

This was an unusual record, as the officials had expected the show to completely fill the two days. As it was, yesterday was crowded and the parade of the premium stuff was not what it might have been had the awarding of premiums been finished sooner. The owners of the horses became impatient and did not wait for the parade as it was five o'clock before it was made.

Dr. F. H. Davis, secretary, says that the list of entries in the various events were much larger than the ones last year and prospects are that the show will surpass all previous efforts next year. Already the promoters are thinking of next year and what the exhibition may be made. Not much difficulty was experienced this year in raising the money by popular subscription to award as premiums. Although the officials hesitated about giving the show, they met with such success when they started that the show was soon announced.

The showing of Lady Maud C and Hedgewood Boy, the famous brother and sister added much to the attractiveness of the horse show. Had it been known sooner that the team would not have held the crowds. As more widely advertised the city would not have held the crowds. As it was the crowd on the streets yesterday was larger than the crowd on either of the days last year.

The good features of the show have been rehearsed numerous times. There is no reason why Rush county with some of the best horse flesh in the world should not have a horse show with the same reputation. With a marked improvement over the first fall event there is every reason to believe with the same improvement each year, the show will come to be known as a great event.

The officials of the show are to be congratulated on their marked success. They have worked earnestly and without any remuneration for the good of the cause and their efforts have been crowned with unexpected success. They began last year with not much hopes for the future. Now they have the ambition to make it the best horse show in the State and even expect in time to compare favorably with the best that are to be found.

CARTHAGE ELECTRIC LINE

Representatives of Railway Company Meet With Committee of Citizens.

Representatives of an electric railway company were here Wednesday, says the Carthage Citizen, and in company with the committee appointed at a public meeting held several months ago, looked over the territory with a view to constructing a line to Carthage. Although nothing has heretofore been made public the committee has been hard at work, and the presence of the railroad men would indicate that they are disposed to look with favor upon the importunities of this committee.

HALLOWEEN THREE NIGHTS THIS YEAR

It Comes on Sunday so Kids Will Probably Have Prolonged Season of Fun.

SOCIAL EVENTS ON MONDAY

Will somebody please say when Halloween will be officially celebrated this year. Of course since Sunday is October 31 the kids will probably be mean on Saturday and Monday nights—and they might not hesitate to do a few stunts on the way home from church Sunday night. However the official night has not yet been fixed.

This question has been bothering a lot of people and they worry more as the time draws near. It will probably happen this way.

The kids will steal gates, tease the "old folks" and put barrels on porches on Saturday night. Sunday night they'll slip out and do a few turns just to keep their hands in, and then Monday night they'll go out and do all that was left undone on the other two nights. The result will be that there will be three halloween nights instead of one.

The social events will probably be pulled off Monday night this year. The usual number of pumpkins and the regular amount of fodder will be used for decorations, and the good old (dry?) cider and home-made pumpkin pies will again be in evidence.

GIVES UP LEG TO SAVE LIFE

Calvin Stotklin is Run Down by Big Four Train and Suffers Painful Injury.

HAS BROTHER NEAR THIS CITY

Victim of Accident Being Cared For by the Township Trustee at Greensburg.

Calvin Stotklin, 23 years old sacrificed a leg to save his life near Greensburg Wednesday night. Stotklin says he has a brother working near Rushville, but the man is not known in this city. The victim of the accident says his home is in Pittsburg.

The Greensburg News has the following account of the accident:

The accident occurred between nine and ten o'clock Wednesday night, Stotklin, who is a stranger in this locality, was walking west on the railroad tracks near Adams. He did not know of the trestle, nor had he any idea what time a train was due. When he came to the bridge he started to cross. About midway he heard the approach of a train, which proved to be west bound 99. As he hastened to get off the trestle his foot became entangled between the ties and he was held a prisoner. He could neither go forward nor backward. The train approached swiftly, and though Stotklin cried out with all his might he failed to make the engineer hear his calls or note his signals.

When he realized that it was a desperate chance for death for him, he, with rare presence of mind, threw himself to one side, clear of the track and permitted the train to pass over his leg. After the train had passed, with wonderful fortitude, the badly injured man dragged himself off the trestle to the side of the road bed, where his cries attracted the attention of Ed Huffman about half past eleven. Help was immediately obtained and the unfortunate man was conveyed to the railroad station at Adams, where Dr. Williams of St. Paul, and Dr. Tremain of Adams, amputated the mutilated foot.

The young man was still at the station Thursday morning as his condition was such that it would be probably fatal to move him. He has a brother working near Rushville, who will be notified of the accident. At present the affair is being looked after by the trustee of Adams township, Arthur Toothman, and the sufferer is receiving every attention possible.

MAN IS KILLED BY ELECTRICITY

Edgar W. Plummer, a Former Rush County Man, Killed on Indiana Union Traction Car.

BODY IS BROUGHT BACK HERE

Had Many Friends and Relatives in This County—Worked For Madden Brothers.

Edgar W. Plummer, who formerly lived in this county and who has many relatives living in this county, was killed by electricity at Carmel, near Indianapolis, yesterday. He was connected with the Madden company foundry for some time and was also with the I. & C. traction company several months. He had many friends in this city. The Indianapolis Star says of the accident:

Crossed wires and a defective telephone receiver are supposed to have been responsible for the death of Edgar W. Plummer, 40 years old, a motorman in the employ of the Indiana Union Traction company, who was electrocuted while endeavoring to telephone from his car at a siding near Carmel, Ind., yesterday. He lived only a minute or so after the accident, and his body was brought to this city and taken to the family home at 1802 East Washington street.

Plummer uttered just one cry as he lifted the receiver from its hook after Clyde Clarkson, conductor, had made a connection with an instrument on a telephone pole at the side of the switch. Then he fell backward in the vestibule. Clarkson knocked the receiver to the floor as quickly as possible and got a slight shock in so doing. He held a wooden handle in making the original connection and that probably saved him from serious injury.

Several men riding in the smoking apartment did what they could to revive Plummer, but their efforts were of no avail, and he died after making the single outcry of pain. Clarkson staggered against the side of the vestibule, but recovered himself and joined with the passengers in an attempt to save Plummer.

The car, which was a Logansport limited, due here about noon, carried more than fifty men, women and children, many of whom were prostrated by the tragedy. Some of the men who were composed examined existing conditions and convinced themselves that crossed wires and the telephone receiver were responsible.

They say high tension and telephone wires in some way became entangled and the charge was communicated to Plummer when he touched the metal portion of the trumpet. They believed a celluloid covering should have enclosed the steel back as under such conditions the fatality might have been avoided. Representatives of the traction company, however, state that the receiver was in good condition and similar to those used on other cars and the mishap resulted from Plummer's mistake in touching the metal. They say he was regularly employed as a conductor and had made only a few runs as motorman.

Conductor Clarkson took charge of the car after the accident, and the body was transferred to an ambulance upon arriving at Thirtieth street and College avenue. Passengers also alighted there and finished their trips down town on city cars. Plummer's body was removed to Flanner & Buchanan's morgue and then to the family residence immediately and Coroner Blackwell was notified. The deceased is survived by a widow and son and other relatives who live near Arlington, Ind.

The body of Edgar Plummer arrived here this afternoon at 3:40 o'clock over the C. H. & D. and was taken to the home of Nathan Arbuckle in Homer. The funeral services will be held at the Homer Baptist church tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. R. B. Layton. Burial will be in the Hurst cemetery.

THIS IS REALLY SERIOUS

Absence of Saloon Increases Demand on Grocers For Matches.

Connersville News: One effect of the voting the county dry that has been generally overlooked is the great demand for matches that is now being felt by tobaccoists and grocers. "I could bankrupt myself in a short time by acceding to all the requests for matches that are made of me," said the owner of a local tobacco store. "The saloon has always been the accepted place for obtaining matches by smokers, but now that the saloons are wiped out, the demand on us has been great and burdensome. In fact, if all tobacco stores are beset as we are I do not understand how the demand can be met."

DEATH CLAIMS DAVID GRAHAM

of his life long companion cast a shadow over his life which was never removed. But never did his efforts to make others happy cease. To the last moment his thoughts were of those around him.

He was a pillar of the United Presbyterian church and when he had good health, which was only a few months ago, he was seldom known to be absent from a church service no matter how bad the weather. He was an elder in the church from the time of its organization in 1879. Professor Graham's help and presence in the church came to be as much an accepted thing as the work of the minister.

A rather peculiar thing in connection with Mr. Graham's death is that it followed so closely the demise of Paul Kerr. Both these men had been closely associated for many years and both had been elders in the United Presbyterian church since its founding in 1879. Likewise both were stockholders in the Innis, Pearce & Company factory at the time of their deaths.

Mr. Graham is survived by three children, Mrs. Anna Ong of Columbus, Mrs. Minnie Ditmars and Mrs. Etta Ditmars of Franklin.

The funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at the United Presbyterian church at 1:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. W. H. Clark. Burial will be in East Hill cemetery. The body will be taken to the church some time Monday morning and friends may call there to see the corpse. The exact time at which the body will lie in state will be announced Saturday.

LOSS TO CHURCH AND COMMUNITY RILEY TO MANAGE BIG NEW CONCERN

Ministers Pay Glowing Tribute to the Life and Character of Professor David Graham.

HIS INFLUENCE WILL BE FELT

For Generations to Come is Declaration of Pulpit—Member of United Presbyterian.

Many deserving tributes were paid to the late Professor Graham by the ministers of the city churches yesterday. The funeral service was announced at all the churches, including St. Mary's Catholic church, and in some cases the ministers who knew Professor Graham intimately, commented on the worth of his life.

The Rev. J. L. Cowling of the First Presbyterian church in announcing he funeral services both Sunday morning and evening spoke briefly, but forcefully and truly of the great usefulness of the life just closed. He said such a life left an influence that was wholesome and uplifting, that would be rich in its blessings on humanity and the world for generations to come.

The Rev. W. H. Clark, of the United Presbyterian church, spoke of the loss the church and the community had suffered in the death of the grand old man. The minister pointed out that his life had been an influence for good and that the impression which his deeds, and his character had left on the community would never be forgotten.

Professor Graham had been a member of the United Presbyterian church since its organization in 1879 and he was faithful through all the years. Until he was completely disabled it was seldom that he missed a service unless he was sick or out of the city.

COLUMBUS HAPPY.

Columbus Republican: Columbus has more in prospect in a commercial way right now than it has had in years. Several factories are seeking a location here and so good are the chances of getting some of them that an announcement that the first good fish has been hooked is expected at any moment.

Sit or Set, Which?

Some one who believes in teaching by example has concocted a lesson in the use of two little words which have been a source of mortification and trouble to many well meaning persons.

A man or woman, either, can set a hen, although they can not sit her, neither can they sit on her, although the hen might sit on them by the hour if they would allow it.

A man cannot set on a wash bench but he can set the basin on it and neither the basin on it and neither the basin nor the grammarians would object.

He could sit on the dog's tail if the dog were willing, or he might set his foot on it. But if he should set on the aforesaid tail or sit his foot there the grammarians as well as the dog would howl, metaphorically at least.

And yet the man might set the tail aside and sit down and be assailed by neither the dog nor the grammarians.
